Palm Beach County Library System Offers Pop Up Media Labs Virtual Classes

Pop Up Media Labs are now available in 13 branches of the Palm Beach County Library System. The Pop Up Media Labs are an expansion of the Main Library's CreationStation, a digital media lab that provides the tools for the public to create audio and video content, podcasts and image editing.

All library activities and classes are currently virtual. Search for Pop Up Media Labs on the Digital Activities page at www.pbclibrary.org/digital-activities. Pop Up Media Lab activities include green screen photography/videography, virtual reality exploration, digital preservation with a high-speed scanner and podcasting with audio equipment and software.

In-person, hands-on, pop-up activities will return when it is possible for the public to interact in a safe environment. The Pop Up Media Labs were funded under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) from the Institute of Museum and Library Services. Florida's LSTA program is administered by the Department of State's Division of Library and Information Services.
