Palm Beach County Announces Spring “Adventure Awaits” Event Series

Palm Beach County’s Department of Environmental Resources Management (ERM) invites the public to experience the wild beauty of the county’s natural areas through its “Adventure Awaits” event series. This schedule marks the 39th season of the series. Join ERM biologists for 22 expert-led adventures this March through May — from hikes and trail runs to swamp tromps and beyond. These are rare chances to explore the outdoors alongside the scientists who know it best. For the events in May, in recognition of Mental Health Awareness Month, we’re partnering with the Get Your Green On campaign to showcase how being outdoors in nature boosts both physical and mental well-being.

“The Adventure Awaits series continues to encourage the community to explore their backyard. We are extremely grateful to be able to connect with the community and introduce them to new trails and observe the vibrant wildlife that call our Palm Beach County Natural Areas home,” said Deborah Drum, Director of ERM.

Space is limited and advanced registration is required for all these free events. Adventures vary in level from “beginner” to more “advanced,” and each is a different experience. To see the complete Adventure Awaits schedule and to reserve your spot, visit PBCERM on Eventbrite
