

June 2019

Krissy Webb was in a bind.

She runs a nonprofit, Student ACES (ACE), that helps high school athletes become better people through character education programs. Her organization was building a new academic, health and wellness center in the Glades -- thanks to a building donation from Bank of America -- and the center needed computers for the students.

Where could ACE get dozens of computers – ideally for free?

It's our June Member spotlight! Read on to find out what happened!
