

October 2019

There are many nonprofits in Palm Beach County serving the needs of intellectually disabled children and adults.

A new agency called CHAMP is one of them, but it focuses on something a little different: Giving differently-abled people with autism, down syndrome, and other diagnoses a paycheck instead of a disability check.

It's a mission that Brett Carpenter of CHAMP is passionate about.

The CHAMP founder shares his family's journey in our October member profile.
