Items below may change with COVID-19 updates in Palm Beach County.

Finding the right care in an emergency

In an emergency - when schools, camps or child care sites are closed - many working parents struggle to figure out who will take care of their children. Some may turn to grandparents, relatives, friends, neighbors or a babysitter to fill the gap.

Who's watching your child?

Babies don't come with instruction manuals and not everyone is suited to babysit. When children are left with non-relative caregivers who have little or no child care experience and no family bonds, the results can be dangerous.
