

The Value of the Specialty-Trained Aide:

A Better HealthCARE takes great pride in our workforce and in the services they provide to our seniors and individuals living with disabilities. Home Health Aides are an essential element to the health care system and are vital to delivering continuity of care for members. Our aides are given specialty training with a targeted approach on: quality incentive measures, potentially avoidable hospitalization (PAH), the Social Determinants of Health (SDoH), and behavioral health as it relates to Chronic Disease management. By utilizing the A Better HealthCARE designed Chrome tablet technology to transmit member specific real-time data, we are able to put timely interventions in place to improve the member's health and wellness outcomes. These interventions can help to reduce hospitalizations and readmissions, while keeping our most vulnerable community members safe in their homes.

The Importance of the Specialty - Trained Home Health Aides:

Home Health Aides are:

- Providing compassionate care and support to the most vulnerable population

- Assisting members with their essential activities of daily living (ADLs) and instrumental activities of daily living (IADLs) allowing them to remain independent in the community

- ◆ Meal preparation
- ◆ Laundry
- ◆ Bathing and grooming
- ◆ Exercise
- ◆ Medication Reminders
- ◆ Client Monitoring
- ◆ Late night bathroom needs
- ◆ Light Housekeeping
- ◆ Shopping, errand services and also to and from medical appointments
- ◆ Ensuring access to nutritional foods and shelf stable meals
- ◆ Providing personal care, sanitation, disinfectant, and personal medical care supplies
- ◆ Assisting with pharmacy medication pickups and making sure members are following their medication adherence
