Palm Beach County Youth Services Offering Free Race-Based Implicit Bias and Microaggressions Training

The Palm Beach County Youth Services Department's Education and Training Center will offer two opportunities for individuals to attend "Race-Based Implicit Bias and Microaggressions," a remote didactic training held via Zoom Video.

Presenter Danniella Jones, Psy.D. will define race-based implicit bias and microaggressions while exploring their impact on youth, families, and those who work with youth. Participants will learn strategies for increasing individual awareness of implicit bias as well as treating and responding appropriately to those impacted.

Licensed mental health professionals will receive two (2) continuing education credits for this training. Full attendance is required. No partial credit will be awarded.

Sessions are scheduled from 9 to 11 a.m. on Thursday, June 18, and Monday, July 13.

Register for the Thursday, June 18 session at <http://ow.ly/5ZYv50A9wTq>.

Register for the Monday, July 13 session at <http://ow.ly/a3QY50A9wTr>.

Once registration is confirmed, a link to access the training will be provided.
