ACHIEVE

JUNE CAREER PANEL RECAP

An incredible community of committed education champions led our students in panel-style discussions last month. Professionals in Journalism and Engineering fields provided candid insight into their personal career and college journeys.

Our guest journalists brought vivacious and relevant commentary around current events which certainly inspired and allowed students to feel safe and heard in their own thoughts. From a student: "There are so many more elements to writing stories like Wilkine explained. You need to know your audience, make sure that you have good storytelling elements and a good editor, as well." After hearing from these professionals, 54.5% of the fellows reported having an interest in exploring journalism as a career path.

Although many of our students have aspirations to join the field, prior to the engineering panel, 76.2% of the students surveyed reported not knowing anyone within their social circle who is an engineer and after the panel, 35% more students are interested in exploring this career further. Luckily our guest engineers provided a boost of encouragement for women and minorities to continue pursuing professions in traditionally male-dominated career fields.

These discussions expose students to the broad options of careers available to them and allow them to truly visualize themselves in a unique and exciting career! We are so grateful to each of the professionals that took the time to sit and share with us!

SERVE

SUMMERTIME GIVE-BACK

Here are four meaningful ways our PTC Fellows are earning volunteer service hours while remaining at home this summer:

1. Phone Banking: students will help eligible voters register and vote by mail.

2. Trash Tag Challenge: students will clean up litter and tag a friend to do the same!
3. Phone an Elder: students are checking in on lonely elders at a local assisted living facility.
4. Student Recruitment: our students share their PTC journey on social media in hopes to recruit new fellows.

We believe that no high achieving, low income student should have to lower their academic ambitions because of lack of resources and expert advice. Your donation goes directly to supporting our program. Thank you for supporting our fellowship:

OUR MISSION IS TO ENRICH THE ACADEMIC GROWTH AND INCREASE THE COMPETITIVENESS OF HIGH-ACHIEVING, LOW-INCOME STUDENTS IN COLLEGE ADMISSIONS.
